

In the Social Realm

Miss Ruth Ogg entertained six of her young friends at a dinner party Saturday evening, which was a veritable feast of good things most skillfully prepared by her mother, Mrs. A. E. Ogg, who was assisted in the serving by Mrs. G. S. Stahlman. The guests were Misses Marion Stratton, Amy Leavitt, Stella Stahlman, Alice Hast, Maria Caldwell and Gertrude Barber.

A "get acquainted" lawn party was held on the West Side school lawn Thursday evening from 4 till 6 o'clock. All the teachers in the public schools of the city were present, the object of the gathering being for all of the new teachers to get acquainted, so as to put them in a better way for enjoying themselves. All sorts of lawn games were played, and the music from the Victrola was enjoyed. Light refreshments were served.

Miss Maria Caldwell was hostess to six of her girl friends last Friday evening, the festivities beginning with a matinee visit to the Vining, where a portrayal of the Old Curiosity Shop was witnessed. At 6 o'clock a sumptuous dinner was served at the Caldwell home on North Main street. This was followed by several hours of music and games, after which the affair resolved itself into a slumber party. As is customary, most of the slumbering was really done the next day. Miss Caldwell's guests were Misses Alice Hast, Stella Stahlman, Marion Summers, Ruth Ogg, Amy Leavitt and Gertrude Barber.

Baptist Program.

A very entertaining program was given at the Baptist church Wednesday evening. The proceeds from the free will offering taken were sent to the foreign missions.

The program opened with a violin duet by Miss Marie Holmes and Horace Reno, following which Miss Mamie Holmes gave a vocal solo, and her pleasing voice met the appreciation of all hearers. Riley Davis, whose popularity is well known, rendered a selection on his violin. Edna Dougherty played a beautiful piano solo. Mr. Rasor next gave a vocal solo, much to the satisfaction of the listeners. Following these there was a duet by the Misses Fernie Murphy and Eleanor Bailey, a song by Merrill Butterfield, a trombone solo by V. O. N. Smith, two piano selections by Mrs. Blackstone, and, finally, a piano solo by Miss Alene Bomar.

Every performer received hearty encores. There was a good crowd present. During the evening Rev. Ogg talked on foreign missions in India, which was very interesting.

The platform was beautifully decorated with flowers of every description.

THE CLUB

Mrs. Walter Gorham will entertain the Chrysanthemum Embroidery Club Friday afternoon, the 18th, at her home on the Boulevard. All members are requested to be present.

The West Side Parent-Teacher Association will meet at the West Side school tomorrow (Tuesday) at 3:30 o'clock. Miss Harris, the new music teacher, will discuss "Music in the School." Miss Creekpau will sing a solo. You are cordially invited to attend.

The regular meeting of the U. G. Embroidery Club was held Friday afternoon at the delightful home of Mrs. Holley on Granite street, nearly all of the members being present. The hours passed quickly in needlework and conversation. The refreshments consisted of delicious home-grown watermelons and muskmelons. The club adjourned to meet next time with Mrs. Hevener.

Division No. 22 of the Ladies' Chautauqua Park Club met at the home of Mrs. A. G. McCarthy Friday afternoon. A most delightful afternoon was spent. Although only about fifteen were present, yet the afternoon was profitably spent, as most of those present were from outside the club. The object of dividing the Chautauqua Club into divisions has been to enlarge its scope and get outside ladies interested. The guests were entertained with music on the Victrola. Refreshments were served.

One division of the Chautauqua Park Club met with Miss Nellie Ewan on Almond street Friday afternoon. The afternoon was one continual round of beneficial pleasure and enjoyment. Rev. Ogg entertained the company with three very pleasing readings, and Mrs. Perozzi read an essay on "Chautauqua Work." Refreshments of cakes, tea and different kinds of melons were served. Music was furnished during the refreshments. About thirty members were present. Guests pronounced the afternoon one of the most enjoyable that they had ever spent.

The meeting of the Ashland Sunshine Society was held in the Temple of Truth on September 10. This is the beginning of another winter's work for this organization, and they will continue in the future, as they have in the past, to assist in relieving the burdens of those who are in distress, and scattering sunshine along the way. A large number of visits, an abundance of flowers, fruits and vegetables, and about two hundred garments were reported as having been distributed among the sick and needy during the summer months. The afternoon was spent in making garments for orphan children. The Normal question was discussed, and also the proposition of sending delegates to the Federation of Woman's Clubs, which meets in Eugene next month.

Six First Prizes For Penniston

S. Penniston carried off six first prizes and one second in seven exhibits of flowers at the county fair at Medford last week. He is now preparing to make a like exhibit at the state fair and hopes to be as successful in the state competition.

Mr. Penniston is not a florist in the commercial sense, but cultivates his little residence plot solely from an innate love of beauty and flowers. His place on the corner of Helman and Mechanic is one great bower of beauty and attracts the attention of every passer. His flower beds are arranged with great detail as to color and harmony and are largely made up of the old-fashioned varieties cultivated to their highest perfection.

Dahlias are especially the favorite flower of Mr. Penniston, and here will be found almost every variety grown in the country. The beds are bordered with the new Martha Washington, which bloom from early spring until late in the fall. His peony dahlias (Geisha) are just what the Japanese name implies, dancing girls. They are large of bloom, strong and vigorous, and the petals spread in profusion and remind one of the dancing girls of the Flowery kingdom.

Mr. Penniston is strong in the belief that the second premium would have been a first had it not been for the fact that he was compelled to cut his flowers the day before the award was made, while competitors exhibiting were fortunate enough to be located so they could offer theirs on the same day they were cut.

The premiums taken were as follows:

First prize for the best collection of geraniums.

First prize for the best general exhibit of dahlias.

First prize for the best general decorative dahlias.

First prize for the best general exhibit of peony dahlias.

First prize for the best general exhibit of collarette dahlias.

First prize for the best general showing of dahlias.

Second prize for the best general display of cactus dahlias.

Extra Assessment Has Been Levied

We print the following quotation from the circular letter sent to timber land holders throughout the county, by the County Fire Patrol Association:

"For more than eleven weeks, since June 15 last, practically no rain fell in Jackson county, until the present week, with the result that since July 15 the association has been cooastantly fighting fires, which were burning in many parts of the county at the same time. The fires were extinguished or controlled before any substantial damage was suffered by the timber. Patrols have been maintained and fires fought on more than 233,000 acres of timber belonging to the association, and yet the timber has sustained less than $1500 actual damage throughout the whole county. This was accomplished only with the expenditure of comparatively large amounts of money represented by the assessments and by loans from the banks, which extended the association credit until another assessment could be levied.

"From the assessment levied April 15, 1914, and from all other sources, including $1,500 borrowed from banks, there have been collected $4,964.74. This has been expended as follows:

Fire patrol and supplies. . . $04.20
Constructing telephones. . . 1,150.00
Fire fighting . . . . . 2,335.00
Salaries and office expenses 250.00
Balance on hand. . . . . 425.44

Total . . . . . $4,964.74

"There are outstanding checks and supply checks for fighting recent fires aggregating $1,300, and notes at banks, including last year's note of $650 to be met, $2,150.

"It has been carefully estimated that including the cost of patrol and leaving a small balance for possible fires, $2,900 will be sufficient to meet the needs of the Association for the present season without calling on the members for any further assessment. The force of patrolmen will be reduced, weather permitting, on September 15, and every other possible economy practiced.

"Accordingly, at a meeting of the board of directors of the association, held in Medford, September 9, 1914, an additional assessment was duly levied upon the timber lands of all members of the association at the rate of 1 1/2 cents per acre."

Klamath Shriners To Attend Conclave

About twenty-five Klamath county Shriners will attend the Grand Conclave held in Ashland on September 24, at least so we learn from the Klamath Falls Northwestern. They intend to make the trip by automobiles and are expecting a great time. Most of the Klamath Falls members are affiliated with Hillah Temple of the Oasis of Ashland.

The Temple here is making big plans for the entertainment of the visitors.

Christian Church.

Attorney W. N. Vallandigham of Hillsboro, Ore., preached yesterday morning and evening at the Christian church of this city to a fair audience, with the result of gaining three new members to the church, one in the morning and two at night.

He will preach every night this week. If you are a business man come and hear a brother business man preach the gospel. Or if you are not, come and hear a good sermon by a good preacher. His sermon will interest you and you will come again. Good music at every service. Time, 7:30 p. m. every evening.

"Brewster's Millions"

What Ashland people are wanting, a story of splendid comedy-drama. Be a millionaire for a night and help Brewster spend his fortune.

Brewster, a young millionaire, was left five million dollars by an eccentric old uncle, provided he spent his entire fortune within a year. He was to take no one into his confidence, was to keep a complete record of his expenditures, and was compelled to show he had not one cent left on the day designated. Young Brewster started in to spend the money. His friends, believing he was becoming deranged, used every effort in their power to save his fortune, greatly to his embarrassment. The funny incidents in the story keep the audience spellbound from start to finish.
